

Warden Message

October 20, 2009

Dear Warden and/or Registrant:

The U.S. Embassy in Quito wishes to inform American citizens visiting or resident in Ecuador that a demonstration by university student unions is planned for Wednesday, October 21 in Quito. The student unions are demonstrating against a proposed education law. The demonstrators are expected to gather in the morning at “Parque Eljido” and “Parque Arbolito ” and then march to the Presidential Palace. It is anticipated that the demonstrations will cause traffic congestion in the vicinity of the Presidential palace.

Similar protests in the past have led to violent confrontation between demonstrators and security forces. Police response to such demonstrations may include water cannons and tear gas. Public transportation is often disrupted during these events. While this demonstration is expected to be peaceful, demonstrations can turn violent with little or no warning.

American citizens are strongly urged to avoid all areas where demonstrations are in progress and should be prepared for intermittent road closures, including major routes throughout the country. If you should encounter demonstrations and/or roadblocks, you should not attempt to continue the planned travel or confront those at the roadblock. Instead, you should avoid areas where individuals are demonstrating and in case of roadblocks, find an alternate means of arriving at your destination or return to the origin of the trip.
